The team that brought you Prof-desk.com, a free online course management system aimed to help school districts affected by budget cuts, announces the expansion of their services through their sister company, Fouts Ventures LLC to the Los Angeles area. Fouts Ventures helps businesses build their clientele through strategic planning using website and software development, social media marketing, and helps businesses monitor their progress and create leads.

Unlike many other web developing companies, Fouts Ventures LLC provides an exclusive niche in the latest web technology development with web 2.0 applications, mobile apps, and server side scripting. Fouts Ventures also offers convenience to their clients with services available both online, as well as in their new retail location located off Wilshire Blvd, downtown Los Angeles.

"We pride ourselves in having the capability to take on projects that other development companies can't and won't do," said Jeremy Farmer, Vice President "And in times like these, it is very important to see exactly where your money is going, and with Fouts Ventures LLC, you will be able to see the progression your business is making, right before your very eyes."

Fouts Ventures LLC also offers clients the ability to use HTML 5, a groundbreaking new web browser script that allows videos to play without an external player, such as Flash, providing faster and more clear videos.

"Fouts Ventures LLC provides premier software and web solutions for start-up's and corporations," said Matthew Fouts, CEO. "Wanting to make the next big innovation in web technology? We can provide the quality and service required to meet your client's needs to establish a large return on your investment."

According to the Small Business Association, Los Angeles County is home to nearly 30% of California's private establishments. Small employers make significant contributions to the state's economy, and they bring pioneering products and services to the marketplace. They are an important source of employment and opportunity throughout the state.
